

We Need Stinking Badges!

Project Title	We Need Stinking Badges!
Project Summary	The American Center in Moscow (AMC.ru) is creating a badging program through which virtual visitors can earn digital credentials (badges) by demonstrating problem solving, learning, and professional development. We will begin with 5 subject areas to test the program and then develop from there.
Country	Russia

Project Description

Program participant will conduct thorough research on the following topics: U.S.--Russian cooperation in space, U.S.--Russian educational and cultural history and current ties, STEM education and business in Russia and the United States, Russian and American cities, and Community Service in Russia and America. Based on this research, IT staff at the American Center will build badging opportunities using the Mozilla Open Badges concept. Ultimately, we hope that our future badge earners in Russia will learn more about the United States, U.S.--Russian cooperation, and will be encouraged to create additional opportunities for credentialing.
